To Whom It May Concern,

The images shown below were created by the Office of Public Outreach at the Space Telescope Science Institute (STScI). The Institute has been contracted by NASA to create products and services that return the scientific discoveries of the Hubble Space Telescope to the American public.

STScI created these images to be widely distributed to the general public as part of our outreach effort, and to that end we have released these images into the public domain.

Sincerely,
Space Telescope Science Institute
